

Our home life quality is so much better since the no-call law was put into place. Having dinner together at the table and being able to discuss the day's events without interruption from telephone solicitors is something that should be permanent. I feel that the unwanted calls are an invasion of our privacy and a signed petition should enable a person to their privacy. Thank you for allowing me to comment on this subject.